"Fidelity Insurance: Forensic Accounting & Crime Risk"

When forensic accountants conduct interviews to investigate fraudulent activity, can they use nonverbal cues as a reliable way of detecting when interview subjects are lying?

Nick Angellotti will be taking participants though the basics of a fidelity policy wording as well as common fraud elements that he has seen in various insured fidelity losses that he has investigated and reported on.

He hopes to give you insight into preparing evidence, reporting and common issues that arise for insured fidelity losses.  He will discuss real cases and the results thereon.
